

the taste of teenaged
marrow, green
like clovers

She sits beside me,
taking apart the world—
thoughtfully laying out pieces across her lap.

That's how it all goes together